

Paper title

2026-10-08

Replace this text with the paper. The `.qmd` is the source of truth; this file also builds a Word document for co-authors to edit with tracked changes:

1. A co-author downloads `paper.docx` (from the Other Formats menu on the HTML page) and edits it in Word with Track Changes on.
2. Copy each accepted change back into this file by hand. To see them quickly: `pandoc --track-changes=all -t markdown paper.docx`.
3. Commit the `.qmd`. The next build replaces the docx.

A citation looks like this (Peng 2011).

Peng, Roger D. 2011. “Reproducible Research in Computational Science.” Science (New York, N.y.) 334 (6060): 1226–27. <https://doi.org/10.1126/science.1213847>.